

Obscure Pelican Compilation Warning

Obscure Warning Message

While performing a pelican compilation - "make html" - I got a warning which took me a long time to track down, like the one below.

```
WARNING There are 2 original (not translated) items with slug "commonslugname":
.../content/somedir/somename-fr.rst
.../content/somedir/somename-en.rst

This type of warning usually means you forgot to change the `:lang:` attribute from `en` to `es` or to `fr` in the translated versions of the same `.rst` file.

This time, I checked the `:lang:` attributes on both files and they were correct. Everything else I looked at also seemed perfect.

It took me a long time to figure out, that the difference that was throwing off the compiler was that I had attributes `":status: hidden"` in both the `-en`, and the `-fr`, but not in the `-es` version.

So if you are making an article "hidden" be sure you do so in all translations.
